Mr. Centennial Beard Wins by Whisker

Title of Mr. Centennial Beard was won by Harold Hall, 5925 Oldfield Road, at the Jaycees exhibition last night, winning over 150 other contestants. Close second was R. Harris, 71 Government, and C. R. Irving, 420 Springfield, was third. R. Bendall, 934 Selkirk, won the prize for the best red beard, and D. Ritson, 3915 St. Peters, had the best black beard. J. Trylinsky, 1006 Falmouth, won the hidden prize. —(Colonist photo by Ted Harris.)

To Stamp Out Coup Threat

France Makes Pflimlin Three-Month Dictator

'Ready to Fight On Two Fronts'

PARIS (CP)—Premier Pierre Pflimlin today gained virtually dictatorial powers from Parliament for a three-month period to stamp out any right-wing coup against the French republic.

By overwhelming votes, the National Assembly and Senate authorized Pflimlin's three-day-old regime to declare a national state of emergency.

Pflimlin told the French Senate (upper house) early today that a revolutionary situation has developed in Algiers and his government forces will fight on two fronts if necessary. He gave no details of two-front plans.

REBUFF TO DE GAULLE

The drastic action served as a direct rebuff to an army-led revolt in Algeria and to the renewed political ambitions of wartime leader Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

After an emergency session of the assembly Friday, the bill was rushed to the upper house and approved early today, making it law.

Pflimlin told the upper house he did not believe de Gaulle intended any attack on republican institutions in his statement that he was ready to take over the government, but "the general would render an immense service if he would make this point clear."

HEAVILY ARMED

Paris bristled with heavily armed troops and police at all strategic points.

The defence ministry cancelled all leaves and ordered soldiers from North Africa on leave in France to report to the nearest military centre.

Two French air force generals were among those reported arrested. In the arrests the grave French crisis touched the North Atlantic alliance directly for the first time. One officer is on the staff of the allied supreme commander in Europe, Gen. Lauris Norstad, and the other is his deputy in the French joint chiefs of staff.

BIGGEST CLUB

The assembly voted the biggest majority ever given a post-war premier. It also gave Pflimlin the biggest police club any of the 25 post-war premiers have had.

One of his first acts was to reshuffle his new cabinet and bring back Jules Moch, veteran interior minister of other post-war cabinets, and the nemesis of street mobs.

The Paris government in all branches worked through the night. Disturbances were put down in various parts of Paris.

SECRET MEETING

The rightist all-Algeria committee—the combination of colonials and military men who have captured control of all cities and most of the Algerian countryside — was reported meeting overnight in secret at Algiers.

There was an unprecedented prelude to their meeting in Government House. A mile-long parade of Algerians estimated at 20,000 strong marched down from the Casbah (native quarter) shouting and placarding support for de Gaulle.

Seed Offer Coming Up

Another of M. V. Chestnut's exciting free seed offers in The Daily Colonist is coming up.

This time, Mr. Chestnut says, it's going to be a "foolproof flower" that he offers Colonist readers — and a brilliant and beautiful one.

He will tell about it in his Garden Notes tomorrow.

Lion Decapitates Visiting B.C. Girl

WASHINGTON (UP) — A hungry lion yesterday decapitated a 2½-year-old B.C. girl who broke away from her grandfather and tried to feed the beast peanuts during an outing at the zoo.

Little Julie Ann Vogt, a visitor from Chilliwack, squeezed between the bars of an iron guard rail surrounding cages at the lion house of the Washington Zoological Park.

She offered peanuts to two 10-year-old lions, a female named Queenie and a male called Baron. Attendants were preparing to feed the big cats.

One of the beasts thrust a huge paw through the bars and slashed the child's head off with its sharp claws.

The grandfather, Harry Jackson, 67, caught hold of the child's body and tugged desperately to free her from the lion's grasp. Then he lashed at the beast with a cane. But the lion dragged the child's body through the bars into the cage.

HYSTERICAL

A homicide detective said Jackson became hysterical and ran wildly around with the child's head in his hands.

A zoo official said fire hoses and carbon dioxide gas were used to drive Queenie and her mate away from the child's mauled body.

Zoo director Theodoe H. Reed said no one had ever before gone through the guard rail and no one had been injured by the caged animals in the 63 years since the lion house was built.

'HORRIBLE'

"It was a horrible thing," he said.

The child's mother, Mrs. Benjamin Vogt, was put under a doctor's care. The father was scheduled to arrive here today by plane from Chilliwack.

Esquimalt

Queen Gayle Crowned

Maypole ribbons whirled and the sound of the school band was heard in the land yesterday as May Queen Gayle Wakeman was enthroned at Esquimalt Municipal Park.

The colorful ceremony featuring a dozen different groups of youthful dancers, Rotary boys' choir, Esquimalt schools band and girls' drill team, was the first May Queen coronation in the Greater Victoria area in this centennial year.

WELCOME ADDRESS

The ceremony was organized and staged by the Esquimalt Community Club with Mrs. Robert McVie as convener. The official welcoming address to the new queen, a 13-year-old Lampson School student, was given by Esquimalt Reeve A. C. Wurtele.

Several hundred applauded the queen and her retinue and the young dancers and musicians in a setting where green lawns and perfect sunshine made this 1958 May festival one of the best and brightest on record.

Tense Talks Fail, Ship Strike Starts

All Canadian Pacific Railway ships operating in British Columbia were idled by a strike at midnight, the eve of gay, tourist-attracting Victoria Day celebrations here and throughout Vancouver Island.

A tense day of federal government-sponsored negotiations, followed by hours of waiting in which neither side made a move, ended at midnight with 350 members of the Seafarers' International Union going on strike for higher wages.

Both the CPR and the SIU earlier in the evening issued statements accusing the other of a stubborn attitude.

The CPR vessels were halted on the eve of a holiday week end, which last year saw them bring 27,000 persons to Victoria. Many isolated fishing communities will be without service.

There was no indication when negotiations would be resumed.

Victoria and the Island were not cut off from the B.C. or Washington mainland, however.

Black Ball ferries, now operating 10 round trips daily from Nanaimo to Vancouver, were "fully prepared" to take care of any CPR overflow, officials said. Trans-Canada Air Lines announced plans for extra service over and above their usual holiday weekend "extra service." Washington State Ferries announced supplementary Sidney-Anacortes ferry service would begin today.

Mayor Percy Scurrah, who had failed in an attempt to get in touch with Prime Minister Diefenbaker or any other available federal minister yesterday, after being instructed to do so by a citizens' meeting, said last night he would "try again in the morning."

Effects of the strike could worsen within a week. A supervised strike vote of 150 SIU employees of the Black Ball Line will be taken Tuesday and a possible strike could be held by 7 p.m. May 23.

Fabled Store of Big Fossils Turned Up by Canadians

TORONTO (CP)—A group of Canadians working in South America have made a major fossil discovery that will help scientists fill in the picture of life on earth 20,000 to 50,000 years ago, the Royal Ontario Museum said Friday night.

Two sharp-eyed Canadian geologists working in the oilfields near Tajara, Peru, made the discovery when they saw fossil bones in a gravel pit used museum-sponsored expedition by highway-repair crews. A museum-sponsored expedition went to Peru, and after six weeks of digging, uncovered enough specimens to keep a team of scientists busy for 20 years.

Four tons of specimens now are being cleaned and restored at the museum in Toronto. They include bones of mastodons, crocodiles, camels, horses, giant sloths, sabre-toothed cats, flesh-eating birds and other forms of life, many now extinct.

Officials say the end result of the work will be a series of scientific publication an important research collection for further study and a new public gallery at the Royal Ontario Museum which ranks among the top dozen such institutions in the world.

The study of fossil animals and insects is important since not only are they ancestors of modern species, but many groups now extinct often throw light on the relationship of existing animals and plants.

'Gossip in the Streets'

Defence Threatens To Call Mistrial

VANCOUVER (CP) — A defence lawyer threatened Friday to ask for dismissal of the B.C. Supreme Court jury in the Sommers bribery - conspiracy case if there was more talk in court linking his client with "gossip in the street."

The threat was made before Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson by veteran, 70-year-old lawyer Alfred Bull. He is defending Charles D. Schultz and the C. D. Schultz timber engineering firm in the case which also involves former lands and forests minister Robert E. Sommers, two other individuals and three other firms.

CONSIDER IT

Mr. Justice Wilson replied simply that he would consider such a request if and when it was made.

Mr. Bull's strong objection came during cross-examination of Crown witness Trevor Daniels, former chief financial officer for another accused firm, B.C. Forest Products Limited.

Daniels had testified that B.C. Forest Products in 1953 and 1954 paid $30,000 to the firm of Pacific Coast Services Limited. He said he had been told by the then company president, the late Hector Munro, that "all or part of the money was to go to Mr. Sommers" in return for the granting of a government timber licence.

Walter Owen, counsel for B.C. Forest Products, suggested some of Mr. Daniel's impressions were based on "gossip in the street." The witness said he had heard "talk" about one company. When Mr. Justice Wilson asked, "Who are we talking about?" Daniels replied: "The C. D. Schultz Company."

Mr. Bull jumped to his feet,

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

PRINCE RUPERT—Some 1,500 fishermen and shoreworkers, including many Indian families who come down for the summer from remote villages up the Nass and Skeena rivers, are employed gathering and preserving salmon, halibut and crab at the canneries and cold storage plants in and around Prince Rupert.

The state of the seafood industry is everybody's business. The city watches the progress of negotiations between the fishing companies and the fishermen and shoreworkers as they drag along indecisively in Vancouver. At the time this is written, company and union are a long way apart on wages and fish prices.

There is a strong feeling in some union and some anti-union circles that northern fishermen get the thin end of the deal when there is a strike.

The season for salmon-fishing with nets opens first in the north. Then areas between here and the Fraser are opened in succession. A strike, when it comes, appears to be timed so that it knocks the bottom out of the northern season but manages to get settled by the time the southern season is due to open.

But officials of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union are aware of this feeling. "If it is necessary to take strike action, it will be at a time when it affects pretty nearly everyone," Ray Gardiner, northern representative of the union, told me.

Worrisome Time for All

Halibut fishermen, some of whom are members of another labor group, the deep-sea fishermen's union, have been busy setting their long lines baited with octopus tentacles for the giant bottom-feeding flat fish.

There's plenty of time yet before the opening of the salmon net season, but seiners, gillnet fishermen and merchants of the town are biting their nails awaiting news.

* * *

However, members of the fishermen's co-operative haven't a worry in the world. While the men who sell their fish to the commercial companies are tied up on strike, co-operative members chug serenely to work. The fishermen own the co-operative. They can scarcely be expected to go on strike against themselves.

By an agreement between co-operative and union, co-op fishermen allot striking union members a proportion of their catch.

Theoretically, both groups work in harmony to advance the welfare of the fisherman by two different methods. In fact, there is a certain amount of shoving and elbowing behind the scenes, which neither side will admit.

Busy Boats Frustrating

Regardless of principles, it hurts a striking union fisherman to stand on the dock and watch a fellow-fisherman from the co-operative head out to sea. The co-operative member, on the other hand, resents paying tribute to fishermen who, he may think, are too lazy or timid to bother joining the co-op.

But some fishermen are in debt to fishing companies for loans on boats and gear, and they feel an obligation to keep selling to those companies.

Furthermore, a fisherman must make a sacrifice at first to join the co-op. Private companies pay him for his whole catch, but the co-operative pays for only part of it, the balance later when the fish is sold. Eventually though, the entire profit from his catch, minus administrative expenses, goes in the fisherman's pocket.

* * *

Some co-operatives in other places have failed because of bad management—but so have private companies. The Prince Rupert co-operative is solid.

Perhaps the management of commercial fish companies—and other business firms too—will take a lesson from the success of the co-operatives and introduce the profit-sharing principle in their labor force.

Unions No Longer 'Cool'

Many observers think that an honestly-administered profit-sharing plan, subject to constant scrutiny from both sides, may be the device needed to take the bitterness out of labor-management conflict. Unions are much warmer toward the profit-sharing idea than they used to be.

The Prince Rupert fishermen's co-operative works hand-in-hand with a consumer co-operative that operates a large, brand-new store. Fishermen as well as landsmen who don't know a spring salmon from a smelt are members of the growing consumer co-op.

Among the 2,500 members of the Prince Rupert consumer co-op (an increase of 50 per cent since April 10) are fishermen from as far away as Vancouver.

At Terrace, 100 miles up the Skeena, there is a farmers' co-op which shares with the Prince Rupert and other co-ops in owning B.C. Co-op Wholesale. Elsewhere in Canada, co-ops own oil wells, refineries, coal mines and sawmills. Canadianas are not as hostile to the co-operative movement as some people would have us believe.

House-Loan Rates Hit By Opposition Critics

Ottawa Called on to Pay Half of Interest Charges

OTTAWA (CP) — Quebec Liberal Alexis Carson suggested Friday the federal government follow the lead of his home province and pay half the interest charges on housing loans.

The MP for Hull joined other opposition critics in the Commons in attacking the "high" rate of six per cent on federally-approved housing loans.

CUT IN HALF

The Quebec government, he said, pays about three per cent in interest charges for loans approved under provincial housing legislation, thus reducing by about half the borrower's charges.

The plan, which he described as a good one and helpful to property-owners in low-income brackets, should be adopted by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, the federal housing agency. Private lenders still could charge six per cent on their mortgage loans, the borrower paying three per cent and the federal authority three per cent.

APPROVED LEGISLATION

The suggestion came as the Commons approved government legislation making available an additional $350,000,000 in federal funds for housing loans administered by CMHC.

Earlier in the housing debate, which began Thursday night, Works Minister Green rejected a Liberal proposal for lower interest rates on the ground that such action would tend to drive private lenders—insurance companies, chartered banks and trust companies—into other fields of investment.

BELOW MAXIMUM

Mr. Green noted Friday that the National Housing Act stipulates CMHC mortgage rates must not exceed the rate on long-term government bonds by more than 2¼ per cent.

He said that as of May 1 the rate on these 20-year bonds was four per cent. Thus the CMHC rate could be as high as 6¼ per cent, although it currently is six per cent.

PROVIDE LOTS

Mr. Caron joined J. P. Deschatelets (L.—Montreal-Maisonneuve-Rosemont) and others in proposing Ottawa join with provincial and municipal governments in providing housing lots.

At present, they said, many speculators buy large tracts of land at low cost, subdividing them into housing lots and sell them at high prices, thus contributing to the high cost of home ownership.

FORM CREDIT UNION

CCF members Frank Howard, Skeena, and H. W. Herridge, Kootenay West, went further in suggesting that CMHC be reconstituted into a sort of credit union which would make housing loans available at a rate of two per cent.

Mr. Howard said that the present "usurious" rates mean that over the normal 25-year repayment period a borrower pays $919 in interest charges for each $1,000 borrowed, thus paying almost twice the sale price of his home.

Other developments in Parliament Friday:

Senator Donald Cameron (Ind. L-Alberta) suggested a Senate investigation into abuses of the unemployment insurance fund, including benefits paid to individuals not entitled to them.

The Senate approved a bill extending by six weeks to June 28 the period during which seasonal unemployment benefits may be paid.

RACKETEERING

In the Commons housing debate, Harold Winch (CCF-Vancouver East) urged government action to correct "racketeering" by some mortgage clearing houses which he said charge rates and bonuses bringing them returns of 15 to 25 per cent on housing loans to persons unable to borrow through normal channels.

Sommers Case

objected strongly to connecting his client with gossip in the street and said, "If it happens again I shall have to ask Your Lordship to discharge the jury."

Charged along with Sommers and Schultz and his firm and B.C. Forest Products are the brothers H. W. and John Gray and their companies, Pacific Coast Services and Evergreen Lumber Sales.

OBJECTIONS

Daniels spent all day in the witness box and his testimony was punctuated by repeated objections from both defence and prosecution.

At one point Mr. Owen accused special prosecutor Victor Dryer of "attempting to interfere with this cross-examination."

Daniels, a chartered accountant who left B.C. Forest Products in 1954 and now lives at Cobble Hill on Vancouver Island, said Munro made the disclosures to him about the forest management licence after returning from a trip to Toronto with Sommers and H. W. Gray in November, 1953.

He said Munro told him that "arrangements had been made in Toronto for B.C. Forest Products to receive a forest management licence and that they would have to pay $30,000 for it, to be paid to Mr. Gray, part or all of which was to go to Mr. Sommers."

Daniels said he told Munro he thought it a foolish arrangement. He tried to dissuade Munro but the president—who died last December but is still named in some of the 38 charges—said the arrangement had been made and there was no use arguing.

"Munro asked me to make an arrangement with (H. W.) Gray when I saw him that the transaction be made in such a way that it would be covered up and not disclosed," Daniels testified.

NO PART OF IT

"I told him I would not have anything to do with it."

Daniels said Munro subsequently instructed him to draw up a $15,000 cheque in favor of Pacific Coast Services. The cheque voucher indicated the money was for professional services.

The witness said that in August, 1954, there was a similar transaction involving another $15,000 cheque in favor of Pacific Coast Services. Munro had explained to him he was satisfied it was a proper charge by Pacific because "these people had obtained options on some valuable stands of timber and other properties" for B.C. Forest Products.

REFUSED ORDER

Later he said he refused to carry out an instruction by Munro to draw up an agreement with Pacific involving a $1,000-a-month retainer fee. Finally Munro had written the letter of agreement himself.

He said B.C. Forest Products also had retained the C. D. Schultz Company in 1953 "to help us secure a forest management licence."

Daniels said he resigned from B.C. Forest Products effective Dec. 31, 1954, because he was "not satisfied that the business with Pacific Coast Services was on the level and that possibly the same situation applied to the C. D. Schultz Company Limited."

Dog Gets Run In Robbery

Thieves escaped with $62 worth of clothing from the car of Edward Tuck, 1065 Deal, while it was parked on Pandora Thursday night. The thieves also let a Chihuahua dog owned by Richard Belfit, 791 Pandora, loose from the car but it was found and returned later by a family friend.

City Jobless Total Down

Unemployment dropped in Victoria last week, the National Employment Office reported last night.

There were 173 fewer men unemployed and 28 fewer women. Manager J. H. Fox said the downward trend was not confined to any particular section of workers, but was "more an over-all improvement," aided by favorable weather conditions and a gradual opening up of the vaious forms of seasonal employment."

Posties Extend Service

Daily letter delivery will be extended to Belmont Park and certain portions of Langford Station and Colwood effective June 2, the Victoria Post Office announced yesterday.

Existing post offices at Langford Station and Belmont Park will shut down for good at closing time, May 31. On June 2, they will be replaced by sub-post offices at 220 Belmont Road (sub-postmaster is Robert Taylor) and 706 Goldstream Avenue (sub-postmaster is John D. Price).

The existing Colwood Post Office will become Victoria sub-office No. 16, with George Wolfe remaining as postmaster.

It is also planned to operate a fourth sub-post office at Colwood Corner.

Langford Station, Rural Route 1, also will be discontinued May 31. Patrons now served by the rural route, who are not within the proposed letter carrier delivery, will be served by a new rural route to be known as Victoria R.R. No. 6.

Delivery can only be given to homes equipped with a correct house number and a letter slot or some other receptacle at or near the front door.

Boat Found, But No Motor

The $400 motor was missing when a 16-foot runabout boat, stolen from a dock at the home of owner C. W. Wilkins, 532 Selkirk, Thursday night, was discovered beached on Russell Island yesterday. The $300 boat was not damaged.

Workman Falls Into Furnace

Human Torch Lives After Fiery Ordeal

Even Hair And Shoes, In Flames

WILKES BARRE, Pa. (UP) — A trucker's helper tumbled into the flaming furnace of the city incinerator yesterday, crawled on his hands and knees across the fire bed to get help. He was rescued when he poked his head through a furnace door and shouted.

Thomas Kilgasky, 20, was dragged from the fire when two stokers pulled him from the incinerator. His condition was critical.

BADLY BURNED

Kilgasky, his hair, clothing and shoes burning, was doused with water and then taken to Wilkes-Barre General Hospital where doctors said he suffered burns over 90 per cent of his body.

He fell 12 feet down a three-foot square steel-lined chute while directing a truck driver who was backing a vehicle to the opening for unloading.

QUICK THINKING

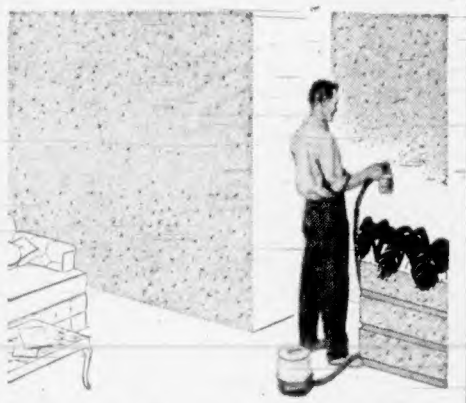
Kilgasky landed on his feet on the fire floor. Realizing the impossibility of scaling the chute, he tumbled to his hands and knees and crawled across the furnace to a door which opened from the inside.

Vancouver's 800,000 Would Rival Seattle

SEATTLE (AP) — The population of Greater Vancouver should be approximately 800,000 by 1961.

This growth will make the British Columbia metropolis a close rival to Seattle, says Robert Kincade, regional supervisor at Vancouver for the Canadian Bureau of Statistics.

Kincade said population gains in B.C. are continuing at the rate of about 4 per cent a year in spite of substantial unemployment. Most of the new residents have come from other Canadian provinces.



Soggy Prank At Tilbury

LONDON, Eng. ((AP)— Teen-aged hooligans opened a flood gate at Tilbury yesterday and sent the Thames swirling through 30 riverside houses. Firemen helped families pump water out of their homes. The boys disappeared.

Anti-U.S. Riots

Congress Probing Violence

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Senate foreign relations committee decided yesterday to open secret hearings Monday into recent anti-American violence pinpointed by Vice President Richard Nixon's South American trip.

Chairman Theodore Green of Rhode Island said the committee would ask state department and Central Intelligence Agency officials for a complete report on the recent incidents in South America, Lebanon and elsewhere.

Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon, chairman of a foreign relations subcommittee on Latin America, said the closed-door hearings would try to determine whether the incidents were part of a world-wide network of Communist activity.

After the secret hearings, Sen. Green said, the committee "will decide on a course of action to be taken with respect to further studies of United States policy in relation to Latin America."

Libel on Teen-Agers

SOME confusion of thought prompted a motion placed before the recent Canadian Highway Safety Conference in Edmonton which, if it had been carried, would have raised the minimum age qualification for drivers from the present 16 years to 18. Better judgment prevailed, however, and the motion was rejected—as it deserved to be.

That action by a nation-wide organization constituted to promote safety in traffic may appear at first glance to be in contradiction to its objectives. What it really amounted to, however, was a defeat for those who in this as in other matters to do with the conduct of teen-agers would condemn all decent youngsters for the bad behavior of a minority. Despite the fact that the accident rate is higher in their age group than in any other, within that group it is still only a small minority which causes all the trouble. The thousands of young people between the ages of 16 and 18 who consistently drive skilfully and safely—who often show far better traffic manners than some of their elders, especially those in the twenties and thirties—rarely receive a nod of appreciation. Instead they are automatically suspect, for the simple reason that they are teen-agers.

The adult who asserts that no one under 18 should hold a driving licence is talking nonsense. There is a teen-age driving problem, and a serious one; but to attempt to solve it by raising the age limit is to confuse age with ability to perform. A licence is a certificate of ability, granted in this province only on proof in the form of a strict examination.

Behavior at the wheel is another matter. No one would deny that there are many young people who flagrantly abuse the privilege of holding a licence, to the peril of themselves and others. An analysis of accident statistics would probably establish, however, that a bad attitude towards public safety is proportionately higher among those in the late teens and early twenties than among those between 16 and 18, in which case raising the age limit by two years would serve no purpose.

In any event why should youngsters who conduct themselves well be punished without trial for the sins of the others? A more effective remedy would be to make young drivers realize that driving is a privilege by taking away their licences for any infraction of the safety laws, whether an accident has occurred or not.

Holidays, and Fires

TODAY the holiday season in British Columbia will begin in earnest, coinciding with a long weekend and the first opportunity for the public to turn to outdoor recreation in family groups. The time also coincides with the start of the fire hazard season in the woods, in consequence of consecutive weeks of warm weather and the absence of rain. When it is remembered that several hundred thousand townsfolk in the lower coast region alone may join the exodus this weekend, the need for caution with fire can readily be understood.

Stand for a moment before a fire-occurrence chart of the provincial forest service and watch the red-headed pins go in to mark the place of spot fires and spreading conflagrations in the bush. A few starts can be put down to lightning. Here and there tree-friction or broken glass have been known to set off fires. But by long odds fires bloom where people go — ordinary, decent, entirely normal individuals whose very last purpose would be to cause damage. In spite of that bush fires happen, and sometimes in places where they cannot be stopped before loss running into six figures has been done.

Everyone is familiar with one of the slogans of the B.C. forestry branch: "Prevent forest fires—It pays." Not everyone, however, is aware of the little it takes to start one. A hot match or cigaret butt dropped at the roadside; a picnic fire lighted on top of dry ground; the leaving of camp fire embers, even though reduced to ashes, for the next puff of wind to distribute; and, in general, any failure to make sure that any flame lighted is put out thoroughly—these have been the causes of recurring outbreaks so many times in the woods that professional foresters believe there is no cure for it.

There may, indeed, be no cure for public penetration into the bush in dry weather; but it rests solely with the public as to whether that is to result in sudden loss from a forest blaze crowning through the tree tops at express train speed, or in a quiet, pleasant holiday with all hazard guarded and no harm done. That is worth thinking over, and well worth a second look at the picnic site to see that all is left safe.

Honoring the Founder

BOTH unique and timely was the centennial ceremony here on Friday in honor of the memory of Sir James Douglas, first active governor of the Crown Colony of Vancouver Island and the founder of British Columbia. The unveiling of a memorial plaque at the site of the cherry tree he planted in 1854, and the decoration of his grave at Ross Bay cemetery by Premier Bennett in the presence of members of his family were in keeping with the spirit of the Centenary and its historical roots.

The hundred years has passed so swiftly, from the birth pangs of the infant colony which began as a Hudson's Bay fort to the sweeping growth of present times in British Columbia, that historical beginnings have been unwittingly neglected. It would be fitting if the decoration of Sir James Douglas' grave were made an annual observance under the care of whatever provincial-wide organization would be most suitable; not as a private observance but as a public tribute to his memory in the capital he founded.

A precedent exists in the annual ceremony held at Petersham, Surrey, at the grave of Capt. George Vancouver, who late in the eighteenth century circumnavigated and subsequently named "the Island of Quadra and Vancouver." Capt. Vancouver's connection with the province, though distinguished in its own right, was remote compared to that of Governor Douglas, directly out of the circumstances of whose life British Columbia came into being. A "Founder's Day" would be enduring tribute to his memory.

Interpreting the News

Waiting for Call in Paris

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

PEOPLE are saying, as they have for years, that Gen. Charles de Gaulle waits in the wings only for a call to take triumphant possession of France's political stage once more.

They're probably right, but the austere general now has shown he will not answer just any call, even if it is powerful. It must be a legal, constitutional cue, not the demands of soldiers and the mob.

* * *

Barring complete chaos, de Gaulle isn't likely to make a move unless he is called upon by President Rene Coty or the National Assembly.

Yet it must have been a temptation to respond — even for the uncompromising war leader — when the French-language equivalent of "We want de Gaulle" rang out not only in strife-torn Algiers but in Paris itself.

* * *

He hesitated for a few days, watching events and possibly hoping for a more formal call, then was content to announce: ". . . I hold myself ready."

In view of de Gaulle's many political enemies, the summons is unlikely to come unless conditions worsen under the new regime of Premier Pierre Pflimlin, France's 25th since the Second World War.

De Gaulle's respect for constitutional means is coupled with a conviction that there must also be constitutional reform to provide more power for the executive and a more stable form of government. Critics fear he would be oppressively authoritarian — the word "Bonapartism" is sometimes used.

* * *

Under the present system, a French assembly is elected for five years and is extremely difficult to dissolve during that period. But the assembly, in turn, can kill governments almost at will.

De Gaulle has not recently spelled out his reform concept, but it is believed he toys with the idea of introducing a presidential form of government along the lines of the United States.

In the present mood of national heat, continued stalemate in Paris and turmoil in Algeria might well turn the country again to the man who was the wartime "soul of France." He has certainly been farseeing in the past.

* * *

An obscure colonel when war began, he emerged as one of the few French officers grasping the technique of mechanized warfare. Then, in the hour of France's humiliating military defeat, his was the lonely voice that cried out: "France has lost a battle, but France has not lost the war."

"Pity about the cold war. Their land mass would accommodate our newer and longer cars"

Introducing VERA

Pictures on Magnetic Tape

From BBC London Letter

A NEW system of recording television pictures on magnetic tape, with accompanying sound, which has been developed by the British Broadcasting Corporation's research department, promises to have a revolutionary impact on many television programs, by improving the quality of recorded pictures, by greatly increasing the speed with which they can be reproduced, and considerably reducing the cost of the process.

The new Vision Electronic Recording Apparatus — which, naturally, is known as VERA—has been designed and built by a team of BBC research engineers headed by Dr. P. E. Axon, and has recently gone into experimental service at the BBC television studios. "The scope of its future use is very great indeed," said Sir Harold Bishop, the BBC's director of engineering, at a meeting held to introduce VERA to the press.

Before the introduction of recording pictures on magnetic tape, the only way of recording television pictures for later reproduction in programs was to use photographic film, using a film camera to photograph the pictures on the end of a cathode ray tube. Several methods of such telerecordings have been developed, but they have limitations. The film has to be developed before the pictures can be played back, and this inevitably means delay and, in some cases, a degree of distortion." Moreover, the film itself is expensive and can, of course be used only once; whereas a program recorded on magnetic tape can be erased when no longer required and the tape used over and over again.

* * *

VERA works on the principle of recording pictures and sound on magnetic tape by electrical means, in much the same way as sound is recorded on a tape recorder. That is, it records the electrical impulses from which the pictures are built up on the screen and stores them until reproduction of the pictures is required.

The machine has the important advantage that continuous monitoring of the picture recorded on the tape can be carried out while recording is actually in progress. Recordings can be edited by cutting and joining the tape and can be played back as soon as the tape has been rewound—that is, in about six minutes' time. This high speed will enable recordings of events to be fed into television news and topical programs only a few minutes after they have taken place.

VERA gives a high degree of definition and freedom from defects in the picture. Unlike the system in operation in the United States, VERA uses a standard grade of magnetic tape, half an inch wide, in general commercial use for sound recording, and runs at about a third of the cost per hour.

The BBC research department has been working on VERA since 1956, and believes that the system has advantages over other methods of magnetic recording. Following the corporations normal practice regarding its inventions and developments, VERA has been demonstrated to British manufacturers likely to be interested in producing the apparatus in quantity for the home market and, after adaptation to different television systems, for export. There would be no fundamental difficulty, Sir Harold Bishop pointed out, in applying this British system of vision and sound recording to color television in due course.

Reports from Ottawa

IT wasn't so long ago that there was considerable agitation in the Tory party to drop the "Progressive" out of Progressive Conservative.

Resolutions were passed at local Tory meetings. Party bigwigs tended to ignore the progressive tag in their informal references to the party. But a national convention was required for any official action, and by the time a national convention was called, those who were most eager for the change no longer controlled the party.

Today, if the Tories were to drop half of their double-barreled name, "Progressive" might be the part they would keep.

Not that there's any possibility of this happening. "Conservative" has historical significance and current political appeal. But the course the party is following under John Diefenbaker is certainly not conservative. To Conservatives of yore it would appear radical. To many of us it appears liberal and progressive — more so even than the Liberals' policies under former Prime Minister St. Laurent.

* * *

The government's legislative program as outlined in the Throne Speech at the opening of Parliament does nothing to alter the course Diefenbaker set for the new Progressive Conservatism in two election campaigns and in last fall's parliamentary session.

A bill of rights. More money for the unemployed. More money for housing, slum clearance and urban redevelopment. More aid for the provinces. More money for public works, including the South Saskatchewan dam, the Pine Point railroad, and airports. Arctic resources development. More aid for farmers and small businessmen.

The key to the whole program is money. The government already is running deeply in the red, yet it proposes to spend much more and, if not tax less, at least tax no more.

In this situation the people might well paraphrase Patrick Henry: "If this be conservatism, let's make the most of it."

* * *

The question all this brings up is whether this new Conservatism is the child of political expediency—or does it represent a movement of the Tory party away from its traditional place on the right of the political spectrum, and into the broad centre hands once fully occupied by the Liberals?

I suspect the latter is the case. Not only has Diefenbaker long provided evidence of being a left-of-centre Conservative by conviction (the Tory Old Guard thought him a radical), but the political history of Canada indicates that the middle of the road is the path of greatest safety.

Besides, that's where you can best elbow the other fellows into the ditch. Mackenzie King was uncommonly successful at middle of the roading and ditching his opponents — and Diefenbaker has considerable admiration for Macking.

Conservatism? Well, here's how Diefenbaker describes his version: "A conservative, in the ordinary meaning would be one who would be unchanging. I believe in change, based on experience, based on the realities of changing demands in a changing world."

Today's Conservatism has come a long way since the day 14 years ago when Diefenbaker was the only member of the Tory group in the Commons who supported the Liberals' family allowances legislation. He inherited leadership of the party of big business, high tariffs and laissez-faire. What he will bequeath his successor will be something quite different—and, I think, much better.

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

WATCHING out over the windy wide bay in front of our summer cottage last weekend, I saw a crow coming from the far shore. Instead of being at the usual 30 or 40 feet height at which crows prefer to fly, this one, with that peculiarly ragged flight of the crow, was coming not more than three or four feet off the rough, tumbling water. The gusty wind buffeted it, and several times it appeared barely to miss being doused—a bad thing for a crow.

On it came until it reached the shore; and it dived straight into the pines and scrub.

In a moment I saw another crow coming along the same route, again barely clear of the waves. I watched its laborious progress through the turbulent air a yard or so above the white caps. It too cleared the beach low, and vanished into the scrub.

I was still staring over the water, wondering what strange reason the two crows, members of a particularly meaningful tribe of birds, could have for such a curious performance across a mile of water, when from the high bluff to the west there appeared another bird: a goshawk.

Blue-grey, beautiful in pace, quick powerful wing-beats and short glides, it crossed the bay at a respectable height of 40 feet.

And the crows in the scrub made never a sound.

$103,000,000 Business

(From B.C. Government News)

BRITISH COLUMBIA'S magnetic appeal as a vacation land attracted nearly 2,000,000 visitors to the province in 1957, some 855,000 arriving from the United States by car for visits over 48 hours in duration, another 400,000 by car for less than 48 hours, another 275,000 by plane, bus, boat and train, and another 400,000 arriving from other parts of Canada.

Yet more than 50 per cent of travellers in the province during the season are British Columbians holidaying within their own boundaries. The actual figure, by a recent B.C. Travel Bureau survey, is 52.3 per cent, with the remaining traffic divided into 29.1 per cent American and 18.6 per cent other Canadians.

Nearest estimate to the economic value of this busy visitor industry in 1957 is $103,000,000, composed of $48,000,000 spent by U.S. visitors, $35,000,000 by other Canadians, and $20,000,000 by British Columbians.

On the Record

Monstrous Crimes

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

IT is coming to be that one who lives in the United States hesitates to open a newspaper, a weekly publication devoted to news, or tune in on news broadcasts, lest one hear of some new monstrous crime committed by teen-agers.

Over a generation ago the "thrill" murder of Bobby Franks in Chicago by two youths in their late teens engrossed the public for months, and was described as the "crime of the century." It can no longer be so described. By the mid-century such crimes have become commonplace.

* * *

The late Clarence Darrow's plea, bolstered by a galaxy of psychiatrists, was that the brilliant, wealthy young criminals, though not legally insane, were so mentally and emotionally disturbed as to be irresponsible for their act, and emphasized lack of motive. Had he spoken in medieval terms he would have said they were "possessed."

Darrow's brilliant defence attracted so much notice that few, I think, remember that it fell flat. The prosecuting attorney argued, with strong evidence, that the motive was not "thrill" (or thrill alone) but money; that, although the youths had handsome allowances, they were insufficient to cover their extravagances; that their bank accounts showed deposits certainly not from allowances, indicating that previous to the crime they had ill-gained means; and the judge in sentencing them to life instead of hanging did so only on the ground that there were few precedents in Illinois law for executing a minor.

* * *

Now the older youth, Nathan Leopold, who was demonstrably follower not ringleader in the crime, has been paroled after serving the longer part of his life, and has written a book about his prison experiences without recapitulating the circumstances of the crime itself. It is interesting for students of penology but it still does not explain the crime or Leopold's companion, Loeb. (He was killed in prison).

But Erle Stanley Gardner, a writer of crime novels and student of crime who has written the introduction to Leopold's book, notes that nowadays crimes as monstrous and unmotivated occur so often that they attract only passing attention. Few even know what happens to the criminals or what sentences they receive or how long they serve.

* * *

This is what is terrifying. The public and individual mind becomes insensitized by habituation, and can conceivably come to accept such behavior as usual enough to be socially "normal."

A Korean Penn State student is beaten to death by a teen-age gang and the crime attracts unusual attention only by the extraordinary plea of the victim's Christian parents that his slayers be spared the death penalty. Perhaps they should be spared. But spared for what future — for themselves or society?

And the others? The youth who threw a small child to her death from the top of a high building; the teen-agers who tortured and killed an old man because he was "a hobo and no good anyhow." What of them?

* * *

Clarence Darrow was on the track of something when he tried to prove that legal insanity does not cover the range of mental and emotional aberrations, inherited or acquired, that lead to crime. But he was dealing with a single case, notable because exceptional.

When such crimes become epidemic can they be dealt with as individual cases? Is it possible for a considerable part of a whole generation to "go crazy"? Members of juvenile gangs describe themselves as "shook up." But why are they "shook up," zany, crazy? And what can be done to make them sane?

It is conceivably an epidemic that runs its course, abates with maturity, or is it a symptom of such grave maladjustment in society itself that it can mount, rather than abate, into a great social disaster?

* * *

These are speculative questions, but the fact is that whole generations, indeed the larger parts of whole peoples, have gone crazy in the past, have been, apparently, possessed of the devil, and have plunged themselves into the abyss. Hitler, for instance, a hospitalizable "shook-up," was the climax, not the beginning, of a generation and society that has never adequately been described.

There are many analogies between pre-Hitler Germany and America today.

Letters to the Editor

Vive Massu!

As a former soldier, under General Salan command, I feel that your editorial of May 15, entitled "The Revolt in Algiers" shows a narrow view of the French internal problems.

In 1944, after having suffered from four years of bloodshed, the French were so eager to avoid any "strong man," that the constitution of the newly born fourth republic gives practically all to the councils, for the individual liberties, and in the same time destroyed any hope of continuity for post-war government.

Since 1939 France is at war, and suffered defeat upon losses. The North African rebellion brought the war again at the threshhold of France's boundaries. The military command has its hands tied by the constitution, and hundreds of French soldiers are falling for nothing in a chaotic colonial policy.

Sincere Frenchmen of any political color would like to see a change in constitution, and so end the rebellion in Algeria and give back to France her battered prestige.

The Brainless Ones

It would seem that some among the younger generation, who prefer the quietness and seclusion of west side Elk Lake for their drinking parties, leave their brains at home, always providing they are endowed with some.

Not content with leaving their bottles and cases scattered about an otherwise tidy little piece of ground, these brainless ones take a satanic delight in smashing dozens of bottles to the imminent danger of others who go there to swim and enjoy the environs. Thanks to the brainless ones I have two deeply cut toes through stepping into such a mess of broken glass lying in deep grass unseen until stepped upon. Also, two younger campers and with a BB gun was seen taking pot shots at tin cans and bottles close to the water's edge.

Broken bottles in the water are a constant menace to tiny feet and during the summer many tiny feet will be paddling about.

"Litter bugs" of course will be amongst us again. They can be set among those who leave their brains at home. Personnaly, I've kept this little park-like spot clean and tidy for two or three years always picking up this litter left by selfish, self-pleasure seekers.

FRANK L. GODFREY.

Lip-Service to Labor

R. L. Thomas' article in the Colonist, May 14, "Socialist Chickens Home to Roost," is timely and to the point.

For years I have written to your paper criticizing the CCF for claiming that under public ownership of industry they will not only be able to raise wages but to improve the workers' conditions as well. The proof of my criticism is again being demonstrated in the struggle of the London busman and others for higher wages from the British transport system set up by the British Labor party as one of their public ownership misleading schemes in order to attract votes.

When the workers of Canada give serious study to the CCF program they will realize that, in spite of the humanitarian principals they give lip service to, their whole program is anti-labor, and that the trade union movement have nothing whatsoever to gain by joining up with them, but an awful lot of funds to lose.

Nature Sanctuary

I would be most grateful if through the medium of your paper, I may be allowed to express my sincere thanks and appreciation to all those people who made time, during the busy week of Victoria's Spring Garden Festival, to attend my exhibition of flower paintings at the Empress Hotel, and who so kindly and generously made donations for the Thetis Park Nature Sanctuary Association.

It was intensely gratifying to witness the interest taken by not only local residents but by some of our tourist guests from as far away as Australia, in the British Columbia native nature sanctuary now being created at Thetis Park.

As a result of my exhibition, exactly 100 new members were enrolled, and the amounts of donations totalled $121.05. This has been a tremendous assistance to the cause of the TPNSA, and on behalf of our president and other directors, I wish to extend our very grateful appreciation. I do not think we shall fail those who have put their trust in us to create a beautiful native garden at Thetis Park.

It was also most heartening to hear the comments of so many of our United States visitors who had come to Victoria especially for the Spring Garden Festival.

A great many of our residents spend much time, effort and money, in making their gardens beautiful and available for this special Victoria week, and both they and the Victoria Horticultural Society should be warmly congratulated and thanked for this tremendous effort in sponsoring the garden festival. Our guests from across the border were much impressed and delighted with all they saw in the gardens, so generously opened for the occasion.

Highway Fatalities

OTTAWA (CP)—A highway-fatality toll of 35 was predicted for the Victoria Day holiday weekend from 6 p.m. local time Friday night to midnight Monday.

The Canadian Highway Safety Conference's forecast was eight higher than for the same holiday last year, when it predicted 27 deaths and 46 occurred.

Stop Kicking U.S. in the Teeth Senator Tells Ottawa Critics

'They Should Praise Us For Our Wheat Policy'

WASHINGTON (CP)—Canada came in for harsh criticism Friday at a Senate foreign relations committee hearing designed to find out what irks Canadians about Americans.

Three senators who indicated they were fed up with Canadian resentments against U.S. policies did not mince words in their attacks although they said it was all done with the friendliest of feelings.

TIRED OF KICKS

The harshest outburst came from Senator Wayne Morse, The Democrat from Oregon said the United States is tired of being "kicked in the teeth by Canada" for doing for the underdeveloped countries something that Canada is unable to do—sell them wheat for their "soft" currencies.

Canada, he said, is "guilty of gross injustice" towards the United States and the Canadian Parliament should be passing "resolutions of commendation" to the U.S. instead of criticizing Americans for their wheat disposal policies.

CANADA TO BLAME

Senator Hubert Humphrey (Dem., Minn.) said Canadians themselves are to blame if they have wheat surpluses which they can not sell. Canada has a price support program but no controls on production. The U.S., on the other hand rigidly controls wheat production as part of its support program.

Senator Bourke B. Hickenlooper (Rep., Iowa) agreed that the Canadians have "uncontrolled" production and their wheat surpluses are "probably due to uninhibited planting."

FEAR OF WAR

Percy E. Corbett, Canadian-born associate of Princeton University's centre for international studies, said "hot" Canadian criticism of U.S. foreign policy was generated by a Canadian fear that their country would be swept "over the brink of nuclear war" by that policy.

Livingstone Merchant, U.S. ambassador to Canada, who was at the meeting, was sharply criticized by several senators for including in his statement some reference to the developing rift between the two countries over the controversial Nor-

COLUMBIA RIVER

Morse criticized Canada for considering plans to divert the waters of the Columbia River into the Fraser River for use in hydro production in Canada.

He wondered if Canada realized such actions raised in the U.S. the "same kind of resentment and bitterness" that some American policies raised north of the border.

HIJACKING SCORED

"I hope you will say to our Canadian friends that they should stop giving the impression they are going to make us pay through the nose. If they are going to pursue a policy of international hijacking of water resources that doesn't make for goodwill."

Won't Probe Norman Case Says Smith

Report Denied

OTTAWA (BUP)—The Canadian government has no intention of establishing a royal commission to investigate the Norman case and actions by a United States Senate committee in regard to it.

External Affairs Minister Sidney Smith also told the House of Commons yesterday that there were "no records" to indicate that the former Liberal government was considering the establishment of such a commission prior to the suicide April 4, 1957, of Herbert Norman. The statement was in contradiction of a sub-committee report.

The subcommittee earlier this week, suggested that Norman had committed suicide rather than face a royal commission investigation in which he said he would have to implicate 60 or 70 Americans and Canadians. The report said that Norman had made such a statement to a doctor on the eve of his death.

Mr. Smith was replying to questions put by Harold Winch (CCF-Vancouver East).

Robbed of $12,000

MONTREAL (CP)—Two armed men yesterday held up a branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce and escaped with an estimated $12,000. One man watched the manager of the bank while the other cleaned out two cash drawers. There were no customers in the bank at the time.

Churchill Deplores Confusion

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Churchill said Friday night there has been "confusion and misunderstanding" regarding the United States wheat sur- [illegible] program.

He told a reporter there has never been room for complaint about the wheat provided by the U.S. to underdeveloped countries.

He personally had never been critical of any part of the American program except the bartering of wheat for strategic materials (now discontinued). This had interfered with cash customers of Canada in Britain and other European countries.

THE VOICE OF ONE

By REV. DR. FRANK S. MORLEY

Protestant churches used to have laws forbidding students for the ministry to marry before graduation. How times have changed! Marriage of college students has become common. Marriage has problems enough, but marriage in college has more.

The housing problem for seminaries, frantically converting residences to accommodate families, is overwhelming. One harassed president in desperation begged the students not to be so prolific! The erratic, abnormal life involved has resulted in unhappy tensions and family breakups, as well as personality breakdowns.

"Massive swaddling," claims the Christian Century. It describes seminaries as being changed into "brooder coops," and fears the loss of prophetic fire in a clergy forced by marriage into untimely caution.

One of the chief reasons for clerical celibacy is to be free of encumbrances, but a wife is no encumbrance to a Protestant clergyman. Indeed churches count on her as an unpaid assistant. She cooks for every event, leads groups, teaches, and attends. Most of us could not get along without our wives. Many churches refuse to accept an unmarried man.

Apostles and Prophets

Paul was probably married, but for Christ he "suffered the loss of all things" and his home was one of the things he gave up for his faith. As a good Jew and as a member of the Sanhedrin he would have to be married. Peter also was married, as were some other Apostles, and appear to have lived with their wives after the Resurrection. The Jewish prophets were married and used illustrations from married life in their sermons. Unlike other religions, the great Jewish teachers never regarded the flesh and marriage as sinful.

The travels and hazards of the lives of the Apostles certainly made marriage inconvenient. The asceticism of the early church was a revulsion from the shocking corruption of Roman society and also in expectation of the early end of the world. Sex became as much of a obsession as it is in the contemporary novel. The medieval ideal became not merely to "get away from women," but to "get off the earth."

Support in Scripture

Clerical celibacy can be strongly supported, however, from Scripture, although some commentators argue for precisely the contrary meaning. Take the statement of Jesus in Matthew 19: 12 and 29, and Paul's words in 1 Corinthians 7; 26 to 35.

The famous first Council of Nicaea (325) rejected a demand for clerical celibacy despite the popular opinion and also the requirement of a Synod in 305 at Elvira. Gradually a tradition became fixed in the Western church which was confirmed by legislation of Pope Siricius (386) and Innocent I (402-17). It was strongly resisted, however, and it was not until that amazing personality, Hildebrand (St. Gregory VII), that the law was rigidly enforced.

The present plight of the Protestant church does not involve the issue of clerical celibacy, but it does involve the question of willingness to sacrifice. Also, if marriage does not make for happiness and health, but for disorder and friction, then students should not marry.

Future 'United Church House'

First moderator of United Church of Canada, Very Rev. Dr. George C. Pidgeon, taps cornerstone of $1,750,000 national headquarters building in Toronto. Rt. Rev. Dr. James S. Thomson, present moderator, looks on. United Church House will be ready in February, 1959.—(CP)

Sect Quits China

Freedom To Pray Sought

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A shiny piece of glass, framed in a big box, suddenly came alive. Figures appeared on it, and sounds came forth.

Eighty-two refugees stopped talking, looked at the box in awe — and then broke into smiles and laughter.

The 82 members of a centuries-old Russian sect, had taken their first look at television.

The members of the Old Believers sect flew to Los Angeles Thursday from Hong Kong, on their way from Communist China to what they hope will be their permanent home in Brazil.

They went from Russia to China in the 1920s to escape persecution for their religious beliefs. They left China to escape their Communist overlords.

In Brazil they hope to settle down as farmers—which they have been since the sect's history began in Russia 358 years ago.

'PURE PEOPLE'

"These are a 100-per-cent pure people," said a translator. "They are a country people. They don't drink or smoke, don't use coffee or tea, and the men don't shave.

"They rise at dawn and go to bed at sunset."

A freighter will carry the Old Believers to Brazil, where a 6,000-acre tract of fields and forest land has been purchased for them by the National Council of Churches of Christ.

Cree to Preach To 1,300 Indians

A 21-year-old Cree Indian, Dulas Robertson, will conduct a United Church evangelistic mission among more than 1,300 Vancouver Island Indians May 26 to June 15.

Mr. Robertson will come here immediately after his graduation from a three-year theological course at Cooke's Christian Training School in Phoenix, Arizona, a National Council of Churches school for Indians.

The mission is a centennial project of the evangelism and social service committee of the Victoria Presbytery of the United Church.

Services will be held at Albernt, Nanaimo, Koksilah, Cape Mudge, Ucluelet, Clo-oose, and Ahousat.

Rev. Douglas B. Carr will speak at both services in Centennial United Church.

DULAS ROBERTSON

Mr. Robertson was converted to Christianity under the ministry of Rev. Ibbs Avery of St. Aidan's United Church here, when Mr. Avery was working [illegible]

At the end of his mission here, he will return to northern Manitoba to take up a full-time Indian pastorate.

Arson Experts Probing Mysterious Ferry Fires

Heaviest damage in four fires deliberately set aboard Princess Elizabeth Thursday night was in top-deck cabin pictured here. Examining effects of blaze is Alex Masterson of fire marshal's office.

Fires Set on Night Boat

Staff-Sgt. Reg Whittaker, RCMP, examines damage in forward reading room—one of four fires set aboard ship. Sprinkler put blaze out. — (Colonist photos by Jim Ryan.)

Four separate fires almost kept the CPR ferry Princess Elizabeth from making her final runs yesterday before last night's strike tie-up.

The fires were deliberately set—three in cabins and one in a forward reading room — not long before the Elizabeth left Vancouver Thursday for her overnight run to this city.

ALL-DAY JOB

All day yesterday, as she plied back and forth between here and Port Angeles, CPR investigators and RCMP officers carried out extensive investigations.

They were joined by Alex Masterson of the fire marshal's office in Vancouver.

Inspector N. Fallon of the CPR investigations staff, and Staff-Sgt. Reginald Whittaker, RCMP, gave the Colonist this account.

IN SEQUENCE

The blazes were set in sequence. First, apparently, was in a top-deck single cabin on the starboard side. This gained considerable headway before a passing crewman noticed it and sounded the alarm.

Flames destroyed bedding, curtains, racks and life-preservers besides doing considerable heat damage to walls, ceiling and furniture before being quelled.

Second fire was in a similar cabin, same deck, on the port side. This was spotted quickly, however. A match, dropped on the spread, had gone out after searing the material. A crewman put it out with water from the cabin sink.

Third blaze was in the forward reading room on D deck, just beneath the bridge. Here curtains on one window were set alite, out of direct sight from the fore passageway.

Both curtains were destroyed, and the wall and ceiling blistered — but between the curtains was a sprinkler nozzle which was set off to put out the fire.

A larger cabin on the starboard side of D deck was last on the list. This opened on an inner passage, and the fire pattern was the same: the bedspread set alight by a match tossed on the bed.

The fire was caught before doing much damage.

All four blazes occurred between 10.25 and 11.30 p.m. Thursday night—a fact which would give the guilty person or persons time to get ashore again in Vancouver before the Elizabeth sailed for Victoria.

Frost Hits Up-Island

An unseasonable, moderately severe frost in the Courtenay and Alberni Valley areas this week damaged crops of several vegetable growers, provincial agriculture department officials said yesterday.

They pointed out that while the frost could not be termed a disaster, the damage to crops of a few growers was serious.

The ling cod of the Pacific Coast is much the same in appearance as the true cod, but is no relation.

Esquimalt's entry in the inter-high meet will be headed by these four champions, crowned after inter-house competition yesterday. Left to right are Bruce Mitchell and Sandra Johnstone, senior winners, and Eleanor Whitehead and Darryl McIntyre, champions of the junior division. — (Colonist photos by Bud Kinsman.)

Oak Bay High also declared its champions in inter-house competition yesterday, paving the way for selection of its team in next Friday's inter-high meet. Left to right are senior winners Blaine Tringham, House II, and Anne McKecknie, House III, and junior champions Judy Humber, House I, and Doug Gilmour, House I.

High School Champions

Winners of individual point championships were presented with their trophies yesterday at the conclusion of the annual Victoria High School inter-house track and field meet. Left to right are senior champ Andy Meija of House III, and Judy Griffiths, junior; Sandra Futcher, senior, and Dave Haegert, junior, all from the champion House II team.—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

No Championship Action In First Block of Games

By JIM TAYLOR

They were bowling for the Canadian championship, but no one was bowling like a champion.

That about sums up the first six-game block of the Canadian tenpin championships, held last night at Strathcona Bowling Alleys, and the most surprised man in bowling must be Ray Bala.

Bala, who had to average 200 while wining the title in 1955, managed only a 176 mark last night, but it was good enough to give him a slight lead at the quarter-mark of the four-man final.

The Windsor, Ont., policeman rolled a six-game total of 1,061 to lead Wally Iverson of Vancouver by seven pins. Leo Murray of Montreal placed third at 1,041, and Dick Marinelli of Winnipeg was fourth at 964.

ALL BELOW FORM

Maybe it was the first-night jitters, perhaps it was the strange alleys, but not one of the four finalists came near his average last night.

Each bowler had his own special problem. Bala's bullet delivery was leaving him with tap after tap. Iverson's hook was coming in too high or fading. Murray was missing single pins for spares, and Marinelli, the hard-luck bowler of the night, was leaving two or three pins on solid hits.

To make it worse, all were getting splits at crucial moments. Bala and Iverson finished with 11 apiece. Marinelli had 13 and Murray got six.

There were only two games rolled over 200. Murray, who led after two games but tailed off badly, rolled 202 in the second game and Iverson finished the series with 208. Only four times did a bowler put together three strikes. Iverson had two turkeys and Bala and Marinelli got one each.

Even single strikes weren't coming easily. It took Bala 15 frames to get his first. Marinelli, who took the opening game with 182, was 25 frames between strikes at one point in the series.

But Marinelli did give the crowd its biggest thrill of the night, cleaning up the 4-7-9-10 split in the ninth frame of the fifth game.

Murray faltered in his bid in the fourth game. He went into it leading Bala, 559-523, but while Bala put together a 191 single, Murray had three splits and missed two single pins to fall to 145.

Iverson took second on the strength of his last game, after rolling only 486 in the first three. His final 568 was the high three.

Second six-game block will be rolled at Gibson's Bowladrome today at 1.30, and the third back at Strathcona tonight at 7.30. Final six games will be played at Gibson's tomorrow at 1.30.

Ray Bala (Ontario)—164, 191, 168, 191, 179, 168—1,061.

Wally Iverson (B.C.-Alberta)—141, 192, 153, 171, 189, 208—1,054.

Leo Murray (Quebec)—169, 202 188, 145, 170, 167—1,041.

Dick Marinelli (Manitoba-Saskatchewan)—182, 155, 149, 159, 152, 165—964.

Stan "The Man" Musial was up to his old tricks again yesterday as St. Louis Cardinals, fighting to make up for a terrible start, made it eight wins in their last nine games to creep closer to the first division.

Johnny Podres made only one serious mistake, but it cost the star southpaw of the Brooklyn Dodgers the win although he held the Cards to four hits.

SEVENTH HOMER

His error came in the sixth inning, when he tossed up a ball that Musial drove over the wall for his seventh home run. It came with Eddie Kasko, who had doubled, on the bags and it gave the Cards a 2-0 win.

Sam Jones struck out nine of the Dodgers and allowed but six hits to take his third decision.

Milwaukee Braves, leading the National League, were rained out but the second-place San Francisco Giants and the third-place Pittsburgh Pirates were both beaten.

Willie Mays hit his 10th home run, with two mates aboard, during a five-run rally in the sixth inning which put the Giants ahead, 5-2, but Chicago pinch-hitters turned the tide in the late innings.

Pinch-hitters drove in two runs in the seventh as the Cubs got close, then pinch-hitter Bobby Adams doubled to tie the score in the ninth. Adams scored the winning run on a single by Lee Walls.

Curt Simmons turned in another neat mound effort as Philadelphia Phillies knocked off the Pirates, 6-2.

SAME OLD STORY

New York Yankees extended their American League lead to five games by knocking off Washington, 7-2, as Whitey Ford beat the Senators for the 11th straight time. Gil McDougald's two-run homer was the biggest of New York's 10 hits.

Murray Taylor of Victoria's Colwood club had 83-79. Gordie Whan of Duncan had 86-81 and Hank Gallus of Nanaimo shot 86-85. Dr. Roger Ross and Roy Chappell of Victoria's Gorge Vale club shot 88-85 and 86-92 respectively.

Joe Jeroski, one of Vancouver's better youngsters, was disqualified for playing a ball which landed out of bounds on the 13th hole during his second round.

Vancouver's Fraser club won the Hamber Cup for inter-club play with a score of 616. Point Grey was second with 621 and Marine Drive third with 626. Colwood, the only Victoria entry, was fifth with 648.

Hogan Leads

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (UP) — Ben Hogan, admittedly playing at "the top of my game," fired a sizzling six-under-par 64 yesterday to take a two-stroke lead at the halfway mark in the Greenbrier Open golf tournament.

Gilmour the Best At Oak Bay School

Doug Gilmour, one of the big reasons why Oak Bay High School must be considered a threat in next Friday's inter-high track meet, warmed up for it in impressive fashion yesterday in the school's inter-house meet.

Gilmour won three events, set one meet record, and captured the junior aggregate championship as his House I team placed second to House III by three points in the aggregate standings.

Gilmour won the broad jump and the 100-yard dash, then set a record of 25.1 seconds in the 220-yard dash.

MORE FALL

Two other records fell in the boys' division. Art Roberts of House II set a mark of 2.13.9 in the junior 880, and the House II junior medley relay team was clocked in 1.48.6 for another meet mark.

Wayne Farmer of House I won the senior boys' aggregate title, largely on success in the field events earlier in the week.

There were no records broken in the girls' division, but the two aggregate champions turned in outstanding performances. Senior champ Anne McKecknie of House III won four events, and Jane Humber of House I took three events in winning the junior crown.

House III won the inter-house competition with 159 points, followed by House I with 156 and House II with 143.

Complete results will appear in Sunday's Colonist.

Esquimalt Athletes Set Marks

House III won the Esquimalt High School inter-house track and field meet, piling up a total of 180 points as the meet finished with track events yesterday.

House I placed second with 169 points. House IV was third with 132½ points, followed by House II with 120¼ points.

MEET RECORD

Sandra Johnstone of House I raced to a meet record of 30.7 seconds in the 220-yard dash and won the senior aggregate championship. Darryl McIntyre, the school's chief hope in the coming inter-high meet, took senior boys' honors for House III.

In the junior competition, Eleanor Whitehead of House IV won both the 100 and 220-yard dashes while taking the girl's title, and Bruce Mitchel, also f House IV, was named boys' aggregate champion.

Several other records fell in the meet. B. Skinner of House III won the junior 60-yard dash in 7.8 seconds, and took the Grade 8 100-yard dash in 12.1 seconds for another meet record.

C. Baarda of House II tied the meet record of 13.6 seconds in the Grade 8 girls' 100-yard dash. J. Larson ran the junior boys' mile in 5.19.2 for another record, and three relay marks fell.

House II took the Grade 8 girls' relay in 32 seconds; House III won the Grade 8 boys' relay in 30.2 seconds, and House IV captured the junior girls' relay in 29.8 seconds.

Complete results will appear in Sunday's Colonist.

Two City Golfers Manage to Qualify

VANCOUVER — Vancouver golfers, led by medalist Doug Bajus, dominated the 36-hole qualifying round in the B.C. amateur golf championships on Friday, winning 29 of the 32 qualifying berths.

Bajus was even with par figures despite the high wind which played havoc with scores as he negotiated the tricky Marine Drive course in 71-70 to finish six strokes ahead of his nearest competitor, Johnny Johnston of th ehost club. Bajus' second-round 70 was the only sub-par score turned in. No one else managed par figures of 71.

KIDD MAKES IT

Bert Tichehurst of Fraser was third with 149, Johnny Russell of Point Grey fourth with 150 while Bob Kidd, defending champion, and J. F. Wright, both of Marine Drive, shared fifth place with 151s.

Two Victoria golfers, Canadian junior champion Bill Wakeham and Laurie Kerr, were among the three outsiders who qualified.

Kerr shot 75-81 for 156 and Wakeham had 80-77 for 157. Tom Bissett of Saskatoon qualified with 80-75, best score for a visiting golfer.

Other Island golfers had to be satisfied with match play in the flights. Vince Clarkson of Victoria shot 83-79, Vic Painter, also of Victoria's Colwood club, had 83-79. Gordie Whan of Duncan had 86-81 and Hank Gallus of Nanaimo shot 86-85. Dr. Roger Ross and Roy Chap-

Newcomer John Cliff Stars at Track Meet

House II won the aggregate title, set three records and took three of the four individual championships yesterday to sweep to easy victory over the defending-champions from House IV in the annual Victoria High School track and field meet.

Paced by their three champions and a fine showing by their relay teams, the House II runners piled up a total of 182 points. House IV, which led after the field events but couldn't keep up the pace in the races, placed second with 147¼ points, followed by House I with 144½ points and House III with 78¾ points.

However, in spite of the outstanding performance of the new champions, it was an unheralded 15-year-old from House I that made most of the news in the meet.

FIRST YEAR

John Cliff, a slightly-built youngster in his first year of competitive running, set two records and established himself as one of the potential greats of city high school track.

Cliff won the junior half-mile in 2.13.4, breaking the meet record by 2.6 seconds. Then he came back to shatter the junior mile mark, finishing in 4.53.3. Previous record, set by Jack Horn in 1954, was 5.05.02.

Cliff, a cross-country runner rated by coach Gordon Hartley as a potential record-breaker, had won the two-mile event earlier in the week, and was also winner of the recent Canadian Legion five-mile run.

Sandra Futcher, last year's junior girls' champion, took the senior title yesterday. Judy Griffiths and Dave Haegert, also of House II, won the junior titles. Senior boys' winner was Andy Meija of House III.

ANOTHER HAEGERT

Haegert was the only one of the three in a record performance, running the 220 in 24 seconds to tie the mark set by his brother, Joe, in 1954.

House II pulled away in the relay events. The junior girls ran the 220 in 27.7 seconds to cut 3/10ths of a second off the meet record; the senior girls broke the 56.3 record for the 440 with a time of 54.8, and the junior boys' 440-yard team cut 1/10th of a second off the record in a time of 50.1 seconds.

Duncan	1	3	.250	3

Next game Sunday, Fletchers vs Mary's Coffee Bar.

Brian McKinley scattered six hits and got his club off to a good start by belting a grand-slam home run in the second inning last night as Duncan defeated Half Way House, 9-5, in the opening game of the Centennial softball tournament.

Catcher Denny Stubbs, with two singles and a double in five trips to the plate, was Duncan's leading hitter.

In Senior "B" league action, Brodies Bakery ran their unbeaten streak to four games as Ray Leclaire pitched the first shutout of the season, a 5-0 victory over Dickinson and Dunn.

Leclaire, who walked five and fanned four, was given fine support by his teammates who turned in the first errorless game of the season.

Recognized Mile Record Broken

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Australia's superb Herb Elliott smashed the recognized world record for the mile run Friday night and soon after a University of California quartet broke the world mark for the two-mile relay in the Coliseum Relays.

Elliott, urged on by a roaring crowd estimated at 35,000, ran the last quarter in 57.5 and hit the finish line in 3:57.8. This bettered the standing time of 3:58 set by John Landy of Australia June 21, 1954.

California's team of Jack Yerman, Harry Siebert, Maynard Orme and Don Bowden, sub four-minute miler, ran the two-mile relay in 7:20.9. Michigan State, second, was timed in 7:21.4.

Both times bettered the world mark of 7:22.8 by an Occidental, Calif., team May 24, 1957.

Elliott's sensational performance may fall under the same cloud as that of Derek Ibbotson of England who ran 3:57.2 on July 19, 1957.

The International Athletic Federation in January turned down Ibbotson's record on the grounds that it was paced, which now is deemed against the rules. Ibbotson's time may still be ratified, however.

Elliott let it be known from the outset that he came to Los Angeles for serious business.

His coach, Percy Cerutty, kept the youngster in complete seclusion all of Friday.

The boy always devotes this time to spiritual solitude, blending the spiritual with nervous energy to reach a peak of effort, he explained.

Drew Dunlop of Texas set the pace for the first two laps, with Elliott close behind.

Elliott in the third lap suddenly blazed into tremendous speed and took charge about 220 yards in the lap. His time was 3.03.

The race over the grass course was an innovation for coliseum relays.

This was the 38th time the once so-called impossible four-minute mile had been beaten since Roger Bannister of England broke through at Oxford, England, May 6, 1954.

Mediocre fishing, except for those who pick the right lakes, appears to be the prospect for anglers over the long holiday weekend.

A check of Island fishing areas last night brought only one really good report. lakes in the Campbell River area are at their best and trout fishing has been excellent this week.

Fair fishing is also reported from Cowichan and Shawnigan lakes but the warm weather has just about ended trout fishing in the smaller lakes in the southern half of the Island. Some fish are being taken but they are already showing a tendency to be soft.

Sproat Lake fishing has been good and there should be every chance of some fair fishing in Cameron Lake.

Warm weather, however, should make for improved fishing for small mouth black bass and for those staying close to their gardens this weekend, a morning or evening trip to Prospect, Beaver, Elk, Dufance or Langford lakes should provide some sport.

Stream fishing prospects are not good, except in the Cowichan river. Anglers have been picking up cutthroats in the lower reaches, from the Silver Bridge down, on silver-minnow flys and there are continued reports of brown trout from pools near Skutz Falls. There was a big black ant hatch Thursday, which should improve conditions, but the weir at the head of the river is again closed and water level is low.

* * *

SAANICH INLET, again, is as good an area as any for salmon. While there were few springs of any size caught early in the week, a number of anglers brought in good-sized fish yesterday and Thursday, possibly indicating that conditions will be better for the weekend.

Most areas of the Inlet are good. Jacksprings appear to be the main offering at the Goldstream end while bluenacks are reported off Indian and Cole Bays and Ardmore. Early morning and late evening fishing could well be worth while at the mouth of Tod Inlet.

There hasn't been much news about fishing off Oak Bay, but there should be a good chance off Discovery and Chatham islands for those who know their way about there. There haven't been many boats out in Sooke waters but fishing there has not been too good so far.

Fish, mostly bluebacks, can be taken in Sansum Narrows but they are deep and one has to work for a catch. Boats going to Porlier Pass should do well with bluebacks.

Best salmon fishing up-Island was off Nanaimo and Northwest Bay but a northwest wind yesterday kept boats ashore and may have, as it often does, ruined fishing for a day or two. There was a big concentration of blues off Clayton's on Thursday while Nanaimo anglers had been doing well off Five Fingers. Fishing was fair, also, off Flat Top Island.

Further north, there was little salt-water activity to report in a fishing way. Only a few salmon have been taken for the past two weeks in the area between French Creek and Campbell River and there was rough water yesterday in many areas.

* * *

COWICHAN BAY, it is reported, will have a partial closure enforced this year right from the start of the annual spring salmon run.

Word is out that the area marked off late in the season in other years will be out of bounds from the start. This will put a crimp into the activities of the moochers, who have been sitting over the best fishing spots and making it almost impossible for the trollers to have a chance. Now, if they'd only pass a law that prevented fishing in waters restricted to sports fishermen except by trolling it would improve conditions for the majority, and also be a conservation measure. It's the thought here that moochers, who invariably fish with leaders so light that they lose more fish than they boat, can be debited with killing twice as many salmon as they bring in.

And don't get me wrong. I don't think that mooching is necessarily unsportsmanlike but it is wrong when a fisherman can stake out a spot for himself and foul up fishing for those who don't choose to fish in that manner. If you don't think that has been happening in Cowichan Bay, you haven't been there too often for the spring salmon run in the past two years. A by-trolling-only law for areas reserved for sports fishing would be welcome legislation. There is plenty of room elsewhere for mooching.

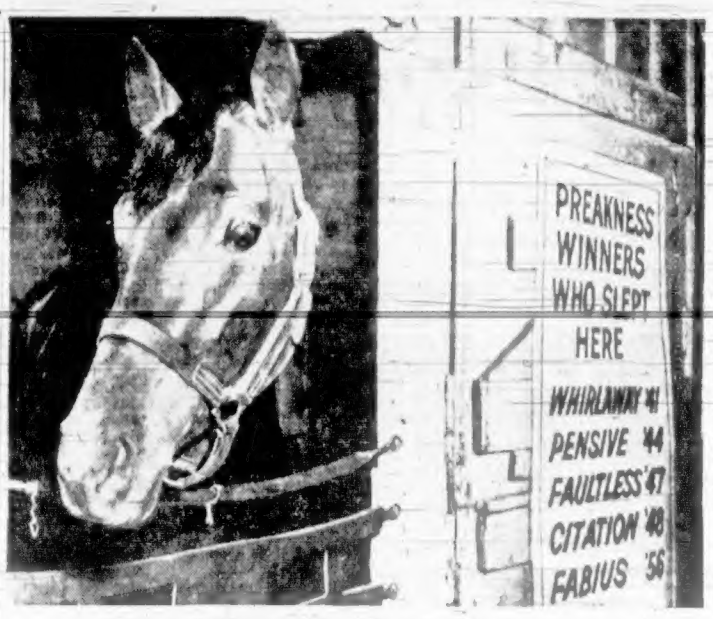
ANNUAL LADDER DERBY of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers Association starts tomorrow morning, so today would be a good time to get a membership and a derby ticket. This is the one derby staged for the benefit of the VSIAA, which devotes most of its other activities to raising funds for such worth-while organizations as the Queen Alexandra Solarium and the Cerebral Palsy Association.

And when you are weighing in your fish this weekend, don't forget The Daily Colonist King Fisherman Contest, either. Any salmon over five pounds and trout and bass weighing more than a pound is eligible. And for Colonist subscribers, every fish entered gives another chance for the $2,000 worth of hidden-weight prizes. The big prize this year is a 12-foot Sea King glass boat, complete with deck, windshield, controls, a Viking outboard motor and a Master-Craft trailer.



They All Slept Here

Kentucky Derby winner Tim Tam will sleep tonight in a winning atmosphere, then go out tomorrow to try for second leg on racing's "triple crown" by winning Preakness. Not since Citation has any horse managed to win Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Pimlico Stakes, but Calumet star is given every chance of doing just that.—(AP Photofax.)

Tim Tam 6-5 Choice; 12 in Preakness Field

Tim Tam, Kentucky Derby winner, will have 11 rivals to beat this afternoon when he tries for middle jewel in racing's triple crown, the Preakness Stakes.

Winner of seven in a row, Tim Tam will be red-hot favorite today as he seeks to be first Kentucky Derby winner since Citation in 1948 to win the Preakness.

Tim Tam drew the No. 8 pole position and will again be ridden by jockey Ismael Valenzuela, who did a fine job in Kentucky Derby as substitute for injured Billy Hartack. Tim was quoted at 6-5 last night while entry of Jewel's Reward and Liberty Ruler were 3-1 and Lincoln Road, who almost "stole" Kentucky Derby, was rated at 9-2.

Other horses entered yesterday were Chance It Tony, Talent Show, Plion, Michore, Noureddin, Martins Rullah, Gone Fishin' and, of course, Silky Sullivan, the California Comet who will be trying to make amends for a sorry showing in the Kentucky Derby.

Television and radio broadcasts of the Preakness stakes will start at 2.30 p.m. Victoria time. Channels 7 and 12 will carry the televised account of the race and Victoria radio station CJVI will carry the radio broadcast.

Garden Notes

Horticultural Holiday

By M. V. CHESNUT, FEHS

I often think how fortunate it is for us that good Queen Victoria was born in the spring rather than in the middle of winter. Here we are with a grand long weekend ahead of us, and just at a time when there are a thousand and one odd little chores to catch up with in the garden.

For one thing, I always like to give my perennial flowers a [illegible] about now. The method is simple enough—I just scratch a little "moat" around each clump and pour in a little "Planter's Punch"—a mild fertilizer solution made by dissolving one tablespoon of high-test soluble fertilizer in one gallon of water.

The amount given to each plant varies with the size of the plant. The little fellows near the front of the border get about a cupful each, while a big clump of Delphiniums or tall Michaelmas daisies are given a couple of quarts.

When this has drained away, the little ditch around each plant is filled in, not with the excavated soil, but with a mixture of fresh, rich topsoil and peat moss, two parts soil to one part peat. The extension roots from the perennial clump will soon penetrate into the mixture, and will revel in the clean, fresh soil and moisture-retaining peat moss.

One of our flower beds out front was planted up last fall with pink Clara Butt tulips and blue Forget-me-nots, and the combination was unusually attractive.

[illegible] clean out the bed, transplanting the tulips to the vegetable patch to complete their growth, and planting it up with a new first-generation hybrid petunia called Blue Lustre. The bed will be edged with the new dwarf white Gomphrena "Cissy".

The Forget-me-nots will be pulled up, of course, but rather than going on the compost heap, they will be thrown down on a freshly raked bit of ground in the shrub border.

You see, this plant has the happy faculty of ripening and shedding its seed even after the plant has been uprooted, and in this out-of-the-way corner of the garden where the old plants are thrown, I'll find hundreds of vigorous little Forget-me-not plants along about August, and these will be grown on to be planted out in the tulip bed again this fall.

In planning your weekend chores, thinning the young vegetable plants is a must, of course, but don't forget to make a few more sowings while you're at it.

Better put in a few more seeds of Sweetheart lettuce and Cherry Belle radish, and it would be a good idea to plant a few more onion sets to maintain a regular, uninterrupted supply of green onions for the salad bowl.

Don't plant too deeply—the noses of the little bulbs should be sticking through the soil when you finish.

Don't be afraid of making a few unorthodox seed sowings this year. In spite of what the garden book says, I've raised tomatoes, corn, sweet green peppers, dwarf dahlias, and many other plants from seeds sown right out in the open in late May and early June.

Certainly, all of these subjects—except corn—should be started early indoors or under glass, but this year we may run into a long, warm, sunny autumn, and we might just click in a big way with these late sowings.

The Viewing World

By John Crosby

As Usual—Viewer Suffers

It was a week of farewells on CBS morning TV. Garry Moore bowed out to do an evening variety show. And Peter Lind Hayes and Mary Healy filled in for Arthur Godfrey for the last time, ending an association more than four years old.

It's a bad day for daytime television when the Hayes's and Garry Moore disappear from it in the same week.

* * *

"The Garry Moore Show," in name only, will continue until June 27, eight years and one day after it started, under the custody of Dick van Dyke, who has filled in for Moore before, and Durward Kirby, who has been with Moore forever and will continue with him on the nighttime show.

Then the show expires altogether to be succeeded by something called "Play Your Hunch." And there is the rub. All the new daytime shows (and nearly all the nighttime ones, too) are called "Play Your Hunch" or "Faites Vos Jeux" or "Do You Want a Million?" or some such thing.

Parlor games. Quizzes. Giveaways. That is the shape of daytime TV and I find it deplorable. Garry Moore and Peter Hayes have always tried — poor benighted souls — to put on a show to amuse, to entertain, to enlighten.

Of course, I don't want to sound as if I'm writing their obituaries. Both will be quite conspicuously working in TV—but not at the old stands. They'll be all right. Only the viewer will suffer, as usual.

I've always admired the Moore show as a kind of wacky, easygoing, satiric humor that is peculiarly fitted to daytime TV.

At its best, the Moore show was inspired nonsense and it'll be interesting to see whether he can carry over this sort of easygoing humor to nighttime TV, which is notoriously inhibiting. Even at its most relaxed, nighttime TV is more formal than either daytime or late at night TV.

But daytime television, which has lost "Home" and is losing "Matinee Theater," is slipping into the dark ages very fast.

Hollywood Today

Faces Fixed to Order

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — The doctor who performed Gary Cooper's plastic surgery, Daniel S. Horell of Miami Beach, Fla., will be flying to France at the request of the richest man in the world, Paul Getty, reportedly to perform a second face lift on the 69-year-old billionaire. The first "lift," as reported in Time magazine, took place in a London clinic 10 years ago. I can't help recalling Abraham Lincoln's remark that "a man is responsible for what is in his face, after 40."

* * *

Ava Gardner's bathtubs are the talk of Rome. She has five of them in her apartment — all different colors, including black, blue and red.

* * *

More fireworks from Lady Nora Docker: she marched off a BBC program a few minutes before showtime, explaining that the questions she was to be asked were too silly for words. Re her banishment from Monaco — she blames Grace Kelly, who reportedly hasn't forgiven the loquacious Nora for her funny but snide remarks in news stories she penned about the wedding.

* * *

In the Bel Air home Jerry Lewis bought from the widow of Louis B. Mayer — price $350,000 — there is a cinerama screen and one for cinemascope. Also oodles of bedrooms for the huge family Jerry and wife Patti are planning.

* * *

Vivien Leigh won tremendous praise from the critics for her "Duel of Angels," in London's west end.

* * *

Ace publicist Russell Birdwell is back at the old stand again, and some of the other independent praise agents are nervously wondering which of their top stars will desert them.

Darryl Zanuck, with his African jungle-haunted "Roots of Heaven" cast — Errol Flynn, Juliette Greco and Trevor Howard all tired of Africa, will make the rest of the picture three miles from Zanuck's home in the south of France. Darkest Africa as a movie location is for the birds.

* * *

Jimmy Stewart, back from a vacation in San Francisco and Acapulco with wife Gloria, telephoned the news that Gloria "did it again." She was the only one in their party of four to land a whopping (97-pound) sailfish. Next movie for Jimmy is "The FBI Story" at Warners.

* * *

Jennifer Jones (en route to India) and Audrey Hepburn thought that a day in Rome was a good day to slip off to the Spanish steps and admire the azalea show unnoticed, but not for long. They were spotted by tourists and fled back to the Hassler Hotel via a back route.

Winning Contract

Vul: Both	NORTH ♠ K Q J 6 5 ♡ Q 10 3 2 ◇ 5 ♣ Q 7 6
WEST ♠ 10 9 8 4 3 ♡ — ◇ 10 9 8 4 ♣ A J 10 9	EAST ♠ K 7 2 ♡ K J 9 7 6 4 ◇ Q J 2 ♣ 3
	SOUTH (D) ♠ — ♡ A 8 5 ◇ A K 7 6 3 ♣ K 8 5 4 2

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ◇	Pass	1 ♠	2 ♡
3 ♣	Dbl.	Redbl.	3 ♡
Pass	Pass	Dbl.	All Pass

Opening lead: ◇ K

After South collected two diamonds, North ruffed the third round, cashed the spade ace and pushed the Queen through. East covered and South trumped. A club return let dummy's ace win the first trick for declarer's side. The high diamond was led and, when North trumped with the ten, East discarded his remaining spade loser.

North led the good spade, East trumped with the nine and South made the good play of discarding a club. At this point the jack of hearts lead would have saved a trick, but East elected to lead the heart king. South took the ace and led the last diamond which North trumped with the queen of hearts. A spade lead made it impossible for East to shut out South's eight of hearts.

Winning only four tricks cost East-West a stinging 1,400-point penalty and led to an argument over whether East had jumped from the fire into the frying pan.

West claimed that his partner should have not have bid two hearts; that, having done so, he should have left ill enough alone and passed the redouble of three clubs; and, finally, that West had lost one trick more than necessary.

East admitted that he might have played the hand better but countercharged that he most certainly had a two-heart bid; that West should not have doubled three clubs and that leaving in the redouble would have been even more expensive.

With the aid of a couple of experts called in to pass judgment, it was decided that East's two-heart bid was acceptable; that it had got by without tragedy when South bid three clubs; also that West's double was both optimistic and premature. North was bound to bid again, and North-South would have their hands full making any game contract.

This left unsettled only the question of whether the rescue had increased East-West's loss. West agreed that he would probably have opened the ten of spades. For the answer to the question of fire or frying pan, let's see tomorrow how South could have scored playing at three clubs redoubled.

NO. 132—HUNDREDTH YEAR | VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, SATURDAY, MAY 17, 1958 | SECOND NEWS SECTION

Citizens' Group Demands Action

Mayor Phones Ottawa To Plead for Ferries

A hastily-called Greater Victoria "citizens' meeting" at city hall yesterday instructed Mayor Percy Scurrah to telephone Prime Minister Diefenbaker and ask that everything possible be done to keep the CPR ferries in service.

The meeting also instructed the mayor to telephone the appropriate person at the late today to get the prime minister. Mayor Scurrah started trying to track down Transport Minister Hees. He was still on the phone this morning.

VERY SERIOUS

Summoned by word of mouth and radio announcement after the meeting was arranged by the Chamber of Commerce, 250 persons were present when the meeting began at 1 p.m. but 10 or 15 more arrived later.

Mayor Scurrah said the ferry strike situation was so serious that "we ought to do anything possible to see that the ferry connection is continued."

It was quite evident, he said, that the union concerned had some very prosperous leaders because they demand of the company an alternative but to lay off the ships.

The mayor and Arnold Webb, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce, told of the requests already made for government intervention.

PUT CAP ON IT

Percy Parfitt, who first suggested the Greater meeting, moved that the government should be asked to bring about some form of action to put a cap on the thing until it can receive proper consideration.

Peter Hartnell suggested city representatives should ask Ottawa to provide better methods of settling labor disputes affecting the public.

LET NAVY RUN SHIPS

Ald. Elmer McEwen said the only solution of the immediate problem might be to turn the CPR ships over to the navy to run for the time being and Reeve Arthur Ash of Saanich said he thought it was within the government's powers to take over the ships when so many people were affected.

UNION "RACKETEERS"

It was high time, Reeve Ash said, that something was done about unions demands upon the public. He did not say that the public should be suffering because of irresponsible, and shall I say, racketeers, in some labor unions today."

LET'S GET ACTION

Eric Chapman first suggested that the mayor should telephone Ottawa and "get some action." A meeting some other time, he said could discuss whom platforms Mr. Webb took up the suggestion and put it on the form of a motion which was unanimously approved.

WOULDN'T ALTER IT

Mr. Partridge wanted the resolution to include reference to sailing in the navy if necessary but Mr. Webb wasn't willing to alter it.

Dick Bates, contending that no one in the room could express an opinion of whether the seafarers union was right or wrong, suggested the idea for federal action should be entirely on the grounds that the tie-up would interfere with public necessity and convenience.

Two city policemen were on duty at the door before the meeting opened, but if violent controversy was anticipated, none developed.

Wins U.K. Trip

A little-known facet of Great Britain has been awarded Lisgar Rae High second-placed Glenys M. Parfitt, 2400 Lorne, as first prize in a recent Commonwealth essay contest sponsored by the Victoria Vic. over 1,450 branch of the Royal Commonwealth Society. She will be included in the 1958 Quest of the Commonwealth Youth Movement, leaving Victoria June 28.

New Sputnik Here Tonight

Eagle-eyed Victoria star gazers may catch a glimpse of the U.S.S.R.'s new heavyweight satellite tonight, but it will probably be a month before Sputnik III is clearly seen by local earthmen.

Dominion Astrophysical Observatory technical officer Edward Argyle said the 2800-pound satellite and the carrier rocket that heaved it aloft will pass over Victoria about 9:45 p.m. today.

The two objects may be visible in the southwest passing from right to left as the observer faces them and travelling in an almost horizontal line.

SATELLITE TRAILS

Bigger and brighter, the carrier rocket will lead the way with the actual instrument-bearing satellite lagging a possible four or five minutes behind.

A later sighting from Victoria on evenings in the near future will be impossible because the turning of the earth inside the almost-fixed orbit of the satellite means any given point on the earth has moved on about 1,200 miles while the big sputnik is completing its circuit.

The jumbo satellite passed over the vicinity of this part of the globe at 8:22 p.m. and 10:18 p.m. last night the second time in the southwest direction and with possibilities of a good sighting not too good.

RECORDINGS MADE

Several recordings were made of the audible signal of the satellite's passage — including those by the observatory technical officer.

Victoria amateur radio operator Earl Fenwick said he heard Sputnik III in four flights over Victoria yesterday and made a tape recording of one flight. He said it sounded like the international morse I. tone.

City Man Drowns In Strait

A crewman of the Canadian Pacific Steamship Princess Elizabeth jumped or fell Friday into the chilly waters of the Strait of Juan De Fuca just off Edy Hook, the coast guard reported.

The coast guard identified the crewman as Bruce Hargreaves, 26, believed to be of 529 Ross borough in the View Royal district here.

The ferry had just pulled out of Port Angeles en route to Victoria when Hargreaves went overboard off Edy Hook.

The Princess Elizabeth stopped, backed up and put out a lifeboat to search for Hargreaves. The steamer continued her journey after coast guard crash boats and a helicopter got to the scene.

Hargreaves' body was not recovered.

Have Yacht, Will Travel

The Seattle police always get their Victoria Day parade.

When shutdown of the CPR ferries changed their plans to come here for the Monday parade at which they have been a welcome fixture over the years, the police drill team contingent had an answer. They are coming by private yacht.

Mutts May Out-Think Them All

Dogdom Aristocrats Have Few Scholars

By BARNEY McKINLEY

A new type of judging was inaugurated at the dog show in the Bay Street Armory yesterday by a dogged reporter determined to find out which breed was the brainiest.

With only 162 dogs of 35 breeds to choose from the job seemed simple enough.

But if you think he came up with a clear-cut answer you're barking at the wrong porter.

Right at the start though you can eliminate the Lhasa Apso or Tibetan temple dog. This is a small ragmop type of dog who will never be able to see things clearly.

He was apparently smuggled blindfolded out of Tibet so he couldn't find his way back and has been wearing his hair over his eyes ever since.

A 140-pound, eight months-old Great Dane is another doubtful starter in the IQ stakes. With that kind of bulk who needs brains?

Some doubt was cast, too, on the Doberman Pinscher, a sort of private eye of the dog world. He can learn things fast enough if he wants to, but is so curious he is liable to leave his carcass in the middle of the lesson in his eagerness to investigate some strange circumstance like the postman's leg.

Among dogs rated as mental marvels was a 3½-pound chihuahua valued by his owner, Mrs. Elsie Hammond of Cobble Hill, as worth about $144 a pound or roughly his weight in top sirloin.

But he was rated an exceptionally bright specimen of a breed which wasn't ranked right up with the top brains by other dog fanciers.

If ability to master training in obedience is the measure of a dog's brains, the order is probably Shetland sheep dog, French poodle, German shepherd and Bergan sheep dog. Mrs. Monty Hudson, a ring steward at the obedience trials, said.

But she agreed with others that score in the obedience trials wasn't always a clear indication of a dog's intelligence.

A strong vote for "the ter..." was registered by Edwin Mossie, West Highland white terrier owner. He said they were the breed used for "show business" as having the greatest ability to learn stunts.

He rated the smooth-haired fox terrier as perhaps brightest of the lot.

But for that matter the smartest dogs may never even be invited to a dog show.

Obedience trial experts agreed that good mongrel was often as wise as any of the aristocrats.

And for a final observation the experts pointed out the cleverest dog in the world can get in trouble if there's a dunce at the other end of the leash.

Be Yourself, Says Star

False Glamor Ruins Beauty

By FLORENCE DE SANTIS

NEW YORK (WNS) — What's the one big beauty mistake women make — the one that usually destroys their looks?

According to TV star Jayne Meadows the answer is "imitation."

Miss Meadows laments the fact that women put on false eyelashes hoping their eyes will look like Elizabeth Taylor's, carefully bleach their hair to match Kim Novak's, draw on Greta Garbo's mouth.

* * *

"One asks 'Can't there some be a test that will prove that personality, not mere perfection, is what makes a woman beautiful?'"

Sparkling Jane certainly illustrates her thesis.

Pretty as she is, it is undoubtedly her vivacious, bubbling personality that has kept her a star of TV's inspirated "I've Got A Secret" for six years.

* * *

"Lovely is a better world than beautiful," Jayne went on thoughtfully. "It seems to include the inner woman. When a woman is lovely you don't even know if she's beautiful.

"In fact, I've known women who were actually plain or even homely who were lovely.

"TV taught Jayne that people remember individuality far more than they do mere good looks.

"I used to worry about whether they were lighting me well or if the cameras were catching my better profile. TV being what it is most of the time the answer was no. But it didn't matter a bit. I've been last six years on a show because of your profile.

"Every woman has good points. The trick of seeming beautiful is to play them up.

"You have good legs. Wear attention-getting shoes. Your hands are slender. Wear the most graceful ring. Pretty hair calls for unfussy changes and arrangements. Perfume, that's a scent every woman can use.

But above all, Jayne concluded, "develop yourself as a person. The more interesting you are, the lovelier you are."

Reception to Honor Ex-Pupils, Teachers

A reception will be held at Old Craigflower School on Monday, July 28, to honor former teachers and pupils and to commemorate first public school examinations held there on July 28, 1855. The reception is under the auspices of the Victoria posts of Native Sons and Daughters of British Columbia.

The committee wishes to have names and addresses of former pupils and teachers in order that invitations may be sent. Names, addresses and date of attendance should be sent to Mrs. Boyd Brown, 31 Armine Place, Victoria, before June 30.

Baronet Stirs Storm

LONDON (WNS) — Fathers throughout England are mighty upset about Yorkshire baronet Sir Kenelm Cayley's well-publicized philosophy. He has seven grown daughters, and he gives each a monthly allowance married or not.

Sir Kenelm explains: "I believe every girl, even after she is married, should have some money of her own, a regular allowance to help her buy bits of things or do anything else she wishes."

A LOVELIER YOU

By Mary Sue Miller

MATURE LOVELINESS. Few women fulfill their loveliness potentials before reaching mature years. It could not be otherwise. It takes time for buds to blossom.

Still many women refuse to recognize the aspect of ripe beauty and charm. They grasp at the straws of youth or sink into softness and self-neglect. Neither course can stay the days. In fact, with age a woman beforetimes. And the key to mature loveliness is agelessness.

In making the quality yours, external beauty aids are almost unnoticed. Fashion comforts with you as the best of it is ageless, fiddled neither for dieties or dotheirs. Since modern cosmetic methods are designed especially to keep your looks at peak it is possible to maintain a youthful figure, lively skin and hair.

For total achievement though a woman needs to expand her fine inner traits and social graces, her tact, humor and understanding, her poise, interests and interest in others.

By these means, a woman becomes so lovely to look at and be with that younger damsels wish they knew her secret.

Midway Still Thrills

By EILEEN LEAROYD

Last night I went to the fair and through the industrial exhibits were great, what I liked best was the midway.

I am crazy about midways. In fact, I don't really know why except I had on a sweater and lower when I was about eight.

PARENTS FRANTIC

Even more than the sword swallower I was mad about the man who had no hands and wrote and painted with his feet instead.

My parents grew nearly frantic as day after day I walked a mile to the Riverside Park where I spent my entire time trying to make friends with the freaks.

To me they were not freaks but great celebrities and I adored them.

I made Lee friend with the sword-swallower, whose wife sent me stamps for years from Europe. He [illegible] pulled you with his eyes.

PULLED WITH EYES

I did cannot think how he did it but he had two long wires that he inserted in the muscles below his eyes. These he attached to a winch and would invite the fattest man in the crowd to [illegible]. He was. I've never been so fascinated in my life.

Unfortunately the Victoria fair has no artists of this genre. But there's a little dark-haired lass who sits on a stool and tries to look [illegible] and she may [illegible] as the gypsy she is now and [illegible].

He was very [illegible] and he was a [illegible] lower when I was about eight.

He was very [illegible] and he was a [illegible] and be an excellent [illegible].

"How stupid." he thunders. "Bad breath comes from HERE." He thumps his stomach.

GENUINE GYPSIES

Well after [illegible] dimes on [illegible] and [illegible] other such games I passed on my friend to join me [illegible] our fortunes told by [illegible] dark-skinned gypsy girl.

Two dark-haired gypsies [illegible] fact one for each [illegible].

It was an exciting moment as we passed [illegible] into the booth, which was again divided into two [illegible].

First we moved our palms with silver [illegible].

My gypsy was faster than my [illegible] and started right [illegible].

"You were born to be happy [illegible] and [illegible] her striking [illegible].

"[illegible] I heard my friends gypsy [illegible].

"You were born to be happy [illegible] and [illegible] enjoyed.

My friend's gypsy was catching up. "You were born to have four children and you will have a [illegible] one."

All in all we had a happy, [illegible] evening.

And Now Hear This

Three hearing aids have been stolen from the Jaycees' Fair, H. Colby of Northern Audio Co. said the three were stolen from a drawer in the firm's booth, after fair closing time Tuesday night. One was valued at $100; the others, old ones just used for exhibition, were of no value.

TV TALK

By Bruce Lowther

Atmospheric conditions again are playing hob with low band channels 2 to 5, as they do every summer.

This means picture problems and freak reception like that reported by Mrs. E. Coles of Sidney. On her set Tuesday morning, a station possibly in Los Angeles was interfering on channel 4 and stations in Omaha, Neb., and Sioux Falls, S.D. were vieing for supremacy on vacant channel 3. Nothing can be done, except to go outside and enjoy the weather that [illegible] however, it must be added that the atmospheric conditions have improved channel 7 reception.

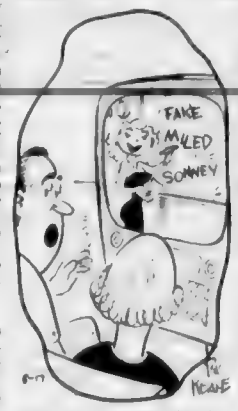
* * *

TV BITS: Best bets today are sport items - the second day of the B.C. amateur golf tournament, the Preakness race and a film of the English soccer final. Best movie is "The Star".

Variety says Sid Caesar may return to NBC for a maximum of half a dozen specials next season and speaking of comedy, Ogden Nash has been signed by Ed Sullivan for 12 appearances . . . Adlai Stevenson will be interviewed by Mike Wallace on June 1 . . . Playhouse 90 plans a TV version next season of the Pulitzer Prize novel "A Death in the Family," by James Agee . . . Nielsen ratings from Britain show the commercial network still outrates BBC two to one.

Sponsor won over network and ad agency in the battle over Voice of Firestone, the "light classical" music on ABC Mondays. The show is a ratting loser which the business boys don't like, but Firestone of the tire firm treats it like a favorite son (it's 28 years old) and has forced his money on ABC for another year . . . NBC has indicated it will renew the Gobel/Fisher rotation next season, but will cancel Kitty Foyle next month, replacing it with quizzes called Lucky Partners and Haggis Baggis. The latter will also get a night spot in the Treasure Hunt spot.

Kraft Theatre will become Kraft Mystery Theatre June 11 and show whodunits until the show dies in September . . . After Climax ends June 26, CBS will fill the gap with a nighttime version of the courtroom soap opera Verdict Is Yours . . . Summer replacements - a western called Buckskin for Tennessee Ernie, a quiz called Keep Talking for Person to Person, and here and there on ABC, Holiday Handbook, Enterprise, American Odyssey, which don't sound too exciting.



"She was probably hired because of her looks."

Forgeries Net Man Five Years

Sentencing of a mainland man in Burnaby court last Friday closed the files on two charges laid in Victoria.

Edward Thomas Allard, Vancouver, was sentenced to five years on each of two counts of uttering a forged cheque. The cheques made out to "A Acke" [illegible] sums of $125 and $175 were cashed at the Bank of Montreal here last Jan. 9.

Subsequently it was discovered that both cheques were forgeries.

Recently Allard, serving time in Oakalla for another offence, indicated his desire to plead guilty to the two Victoria offences. The four years' terms concurrent followed.

City Asked To Share Tab

A $100 city contribution to an $800 luncheon for the Canadian Junior Chamber of Commerce during its convention in Victoria will be recommended to city council by the finance committee.

Saanich recently approved giving $250.

WHY WAIT UNTIL MIDDLE AGE TO ENJOY A HOME OF YOUR OWN?

BUY NOW!

Not so many years ago, the average young couple couldn't think of buying a home until middle age, or later. But with modern financing arrangements, buying a home early in life has become commonplace. Today, you can enjoy a home of your own while your children are still young, and will have a chance to enjoy it during their growing years. With the cost of labour and materials steadily advancing the cost of a home will never be less than now.

Canadian Force Alert In French Civil Crisis

OTTAWA (CP)—All leaves for Canadian troops in France will be cancelled in event of civil war in that country.

The some 3,000 Canadian servicemen and dependents in France—nearly all RCAF personnel—would also be confined to their bases and those on leave recalled.

Officials said they feel it is unlikely that French rioters would ever attack a NATO base, but preliminary precautions would be taken in event of a French domestic outbreak.

Roses at Five Rubles Each Impress Pianist Cliburn

NEW YORK—Van Cliburn, 23-year-old Texan whose piano playing captivated the Russians, arrived home yesterday with suitcases full of gifts and a lilac bush to plant on the American grave of composer Sergei Rachmaninoff.

The gangling, bushy-haired pianist, who won first prize in the international Tchaikovsky contest in Moscow, said that he had found Russians to be much like Texans.

Russian admirers, he said, had given him an enormous bouquet of roses. "Being from Texas, I just assumed that they grew wild but later I found out that the roses were flown from the Crimea, and they cost five rubles apiece," he said.

His conclusion was, he said, that Texans and Russians had this in common: "If they like something, they absolutely go crazy, and if they don't like it they tell you so."

* * *

LONDON — Seven-year-old Princess Anne returned to Windsor Castle from hospital yesterday minus her tonsils and adenoids. The princess underwent an operation 10 days ago.

* * *

WASHINGTON — The United Mine Workers Journal yesterday nominated as crew members on the first rocket to the moon: Walter Reuther, John Foster Dulles, Khrushchev and the president-general of the Daughters of the American revolution.

"We think this would . . . rid this troubled old world of a number of people who talk too much and don't say anything," a journal editorial said.

* * *

GLASGOW—Relatives and friends of Peter Anthony Manuel, 31, accused of being a mass murderer, said yesterday that he went to a party and dance last New Year's Day, the day he is alleged to have shot and killed a family of three.

* * *

OAKLAND, Calif.—Sigurd Ulland, 49, former U.S. ski jumping champion, shot his wife to death with a deer rifle, police reported, and was placed under suicide guard in a jail cell yesterday. "He's upset like he is ready to explode any second," said Police Inspector Clifford Anderson.

* * *

VANCOUVER — A federal royal commission to investigate all aspects of the B.C. Indian problem is urged by Guy Williams, a spokesman for the Native Brotherhood of B.C. "We must have this," he said, "if we are to have equal status."

* * *

TORONTO—George Potvin, 39, of Ottawa stopped here yesterday on his cross-country walk from Ottawa to Vancouver. He left Ottawa May 5 and hopes to be in Vancouver July 5.

* * *

LONDON—Italian President Giovanni Gronchi and his wife were seen off at London airport by Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd Friday night after a three-day state visit. The Queen and Gronchi exchanged formal farewell messages in which both said the visit had strengthened ties between the two countries.

* * *

VANCOUVER — Sir Winston Churchill is being asked to help the cause of traffic safety. The British Columbia Traffic and Safety Council has decided to send Sir Winston a white umbrella in the hope that his use of it would encourage European acceptance of the idea.

Chèque Fraud

Jail Term Given Ex-Teller

Previous good character and a good work record won a measure of leniency in city police court yesterday for Loretta Bayduck, Toronto, who had pleaded guilty to two charges of uttering forged cheques.

On each count—one involving a cheque for $500, the other for $600 — she was sentenced to three months in jail, to be served concurrently.

"This matter is rather serious," said Magistrate Henry C. Hall, "because you were in a position of trust. It certainly appears as if your actions were planned . . . However, in Toronto you did surrender yourself to the police."

Accused was employed as a teller at the Bank of Montreal in Victoria for about 10 days last February. When she left, it was discovered that the two cheques concerned had passed through her cage.

Driver Fined $250, Licence Suspended

In Oak Bay police court yesterday, Barry Dale Caviness, 542 Harbinger, was fined $250, and his licence suspended, for criminally negligent driving.

Accused was driver of one of two cars involved in a head-on collision at about 1.40 a.m. March 30, at Cadboro Bay Road and Beach Drive. Four persons were injured, and damage to both cars totalled about $4,000.
